5. Once all of the pages are hole punched, you have the option of laminating the pages if you so choose
 - a. If you have access to a laminator, you can use that
 - b. Or, you can use self-laminating sheets from the dollar store which do not require a machine
 - c. Remember that the lamination is not required, but it will help your booklet to last longer if you choose to do it.
 - d. Assemble the panels on the lamination sheet

e.

f. Insert the pages to be laminated g.

h. After the pages are laminated you can trim them and cut out the individual panels

- j. Now you can re-holepunch the individual panels, (note: we hole punch the pages before we laminate to make it easier to holepunch through the lamination so it does not wreck the lamination)

- k.
6. Now that our panels are completed, we can use a key ring like this one to hold the pages together.
